Arbitration Clauses in Unanimous Shareholder Agreements: MBCA

The appeal court redefines the nature of a dispute under a unanimous shareholder agreement in Hnatiuk v. Court, 2010 MBCA 20. Disagreeing with the motion judge's characterization of the dispute as a share valuation issue, the court finds valuation to be secondary to the essence of the disagreement, which arose from the failure of the parties to follow the process set out in the USA for agreeing on a value for their respective interests. Thus while the referral to arbitration stands, the appeal is allowed for the purpose of properly describing the nature of the dispute being referred for arbitration.

Directors' Liability: ONCA

The recent Ontario Court of Appeal decision in Danso-Coffey v. Ontario, 2010 ONCA 171 should give those offered figurehead directorships pause to consider the potential risks in such appointments. The court set aside a lower court finding that the respondent (who was named a director of her brother's corporation without her consent or knowledge) was not liable for unremitted sales tax owed by the bankrupt corporation. The following article summarizes the corporate and tax law principles underlying the decision and the implications for unwitting directors:
